Renaissance Learning® teams up with Pearson Scott Foresman to create tailored Accelerated Math libraries

MADISON, Wis.,—June 16, 2004—Renaissance Learning®, Inc., a leading provider of learning information systems and school improvement programs for pre-K–12 schools, has teamed up with educational materials publisher Pearson Scott Foresman to offer Accelerated Math libraries specifically tailored for schools using Scott Foresman-Addison Wesley Mathematics textbooks. Libraries will be available in the fall of 2004.

Renaissance Learning will sell Scott Foresman-Addison Wesley Mathematics libraries through direct sales, Web, and standard channels. The libraries will cover Scott Foresman-Addison Wesley Mathematics textbooks for grades 1–6. State standards-tagged libraries will be available for Virginia, Oklahoma, Louisiana, and Tennessee.

Scott Foresman-Addison Wesley Mathematics connects math to reading and writing strategies so all students can become successful problem solvers and test takers.

Accelerated Math libraries are stocked with an almost unlimited number of algorithm-generated problems. All are created to reflect the scope and sequence of instruction found in math textbooks, following the learning objectives specified by specific state standards.

Pearson Scott Foresman has been in the business of publishing educational materials since 1896. With more than 300 years of combined educational publishing experience, Pearson Scott Foresman offers high-quality teacher and student materials in all school disciplines: reading, science, mathematics, language arts, social studies, music, technology, and religion.

Renaissance Learning®, Inc., is a leading provider of research-based learning information systems software, school improvement programs, teacher training and consulting. Adopted by over 65,000 schools, Renaissance information technology products give students and teachers continuous constructive feedback that helps motivate students, dramatically accelerate learning, improve test scores, and help students master all standards, while reducing teacher paperwork. Over 500,000 educators have received Renaissance training. Renaissance Learning has six U.S. locations and subsidiaries in Australia, Canada, India, and the United Kingdom.
